

LOVE CONQUERS ALL

Do you really know, how it feels
To have a loved one by your side
Do you really know, how to deal
With someone else's pride

Do you understand that love is an emotion?
And not something that you do
Can you understand there's no need for commotion?
Just let your love shine through

Do you understand the reasons for dying?
Or the birth of a new born
Why someone always ends up crying
From the wrath of another's scorn

Do you understand the weather?
Changing from hot to cold
A bird in flight, losing his feather
Or comprehending what you're told

Do you understand the ways of humanity?
The laws that govern our land
Can you understand someone else's insanity?
Would you lend them a helping hand?

Peace and harmony, is all that's asked
Is that really so hard to do
Is it really such a great big task?
That cannot be done by you

How is it, that we could be so blind?
At what's going on today
The prejudice, ignorance or just being unkind
And all we can do is just pray

That one day the world will wake up

Reality will prove its worth
One day we'll see that silver cup
And there will be peace on earth

Life itself is a world of mystery
Like the trees that grow so tall
Time and people make up life's history
But love conquers all

